PROJECT OVERVIEW

- Surety bonds website (JWS)
A surety bond is a binding contract between three different parties, which include the principal (the one who needs the bond), the surety (the company who writes the bond), and the obligee (the entity requiring the bond). It provides a guarantee to the obligee that the principal will conduct themselves per the terms outlined in the surety bond.

If the principal fails to complete the task or obligation, the obligee can file a claim against the bond for damages. If a claim is deemed valid, the surety reimburses the obligee.
